The Home Boys Entertained.

The skating rink was a scene of a continuous round of pleasure from 8 to 12 o'clock Friday night when the girls exercised their best efforts to entertain the young society men who had been giving them so much enjoyable skating parties at the rink during the past winter. The majority of the girls were dressed in white summer dresses and they were never so attractive and sociable as they were at this last year party for the home boys. Each one was busy trying to make their guests have a good time as they most certainly succeeded. The Road Question.

Mr. J. D. Babage: Dear Sir:—In reading your paper for the last six months I have failed to notice any thing said about the roads. You claim to treat all with justice; and you always had a great deal to say when the roads were bad. Please tell us why you are so mum now, for the roads are worse now than they have been for twelve years. In fact, they are almost impassable, but we do not blame Charley Butler for it. He is a good road man. We do blame you for concealing every other supervisor and laying all the bad roads to inefficient supervision when the roads that were worst most last year are now the worst roads we have. John, (if you will get a bear skin rug for one horse could not pull you), and drive out 3 miles from town on any public road and then write the truth about the road question, the rig shall not cost you nothing. Now if you do not make the trip tell us how you got on. We will say about the condition of the roads.

Respectfully,
Ex-Supervisor, Geo. N. Harris.

GRAND MEETING HELD BY A. S. OF E.

Farmers Meet At Hardinsburg Monday--Twelve Local Unions Represented.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

A large and representative body of farmers, members of the A. S. of E., and a number who were not members, but in sympathy with the society, met at Hardinsburg Monday. It was a regular meeting of the Breckenridge county Union. The local Unions were fairly well represented by delegates from twelve local Unions. There never was a more solid, substantial and thrifty body of farmers assembled at Hardinsburg. They were never more determined and loyal to their cause. They were happy, contented and prosperous. They were all in love and harmony; their only object seemed to be to keep in harmony and keep down disorder in their ranks. Conservatism reigned. Law and order was the key note. Better products, better prices and an equal deal to all seemed to be the supreme object of their coming together.

Mr. Shreveburg, President of the county Union, called the meeting to order. In doing so, he said he thought it was strange that farmers cannot come together and unite on one thing and stand by it. He wished to impress on members that whatever was done here today, should be done with the view to the best interests of the farmers, their neighbors and friends. Let us first be right; know that we are right, then go ahead and stand by it. "I've decided said he, to plant 10,000 hills to the hand, let every one of us do it. By doing this we keep down discontent and murmurings. There will be no trouble if every man sticks to his promises." He made a splendid talk of good advice and a spirit of fair dealing. Mr. Shreveburg appointed in the following committee on resolutions: W. R. Pierce, R. L. Burch, E. K. Oglesby, Dr. P. W. Foote, Lon Jarboe and Silas Miller. The committee retired after a long consultation reported the following resolutions, which after some discussion were unanimously adopted.

We, your committee on resolutions, affirm our faith in the eternal principles taught in the official organs and the so-called book.

We realize that the present prices of our products, while not yet remunerative, would be much lower if no attempt had ever been made by the organization to compel a living price.

We deplore the little disruption in the last Indianapolis Convention and feel that many of our loyal subjects are at a loss to know whose banner to follow. The next Convention, we think, will fully settle this question, and while we are waiting, we urge you all to stand together.

We condemn the lawlessness of the night riders and as an organization, stand tall and fight against such. On the other hand, we feel and know that the laws have been trampled and the farmer robbed to an extent that far outweighs present outrages and that wrongs never made one right.

We demand our law makers to take prompt action against the trusts.

We urge all locals to send one delegate to attend the meeting to be held at Owensboro on April 18.

We also urge all local unions to get busy and pay their dues for on this depends the life and success of the American Society of Equity.

We recommend that the acreage be held to 10,000 hills to the hand, 5,000 to the half hand.

We universally condemn the Kentucky press for their unfair reports and resolutions to defeat the principles of Equity.

NEW STATE LAWS

Acts of the Late Legislature Presented Here in Concise Form.

SOME OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

While Not So Many Laws Were Enacted as by Previous General Assembly, Some Acts Stand High.

Reorganization of the Kentucky School System Was One of the Measures of Large Importance.

Far-Reaching Action Was Taken Toward a Regulation of Tobacco Business in the State.

Among the Measures That Failed Were the County Option Bill and the Reapportionment Bill.

The Kentucky Legislature that adjourned on March 17th did not enact as many laws as its predecessors, but some of the laws are of vital importance. Chief among these are the following:

Act abolishing the present school trustee system and establishing county boards to control the schools and teachers; act to prevent a man from selling his tobacco after he pools it; act appropriating $475,000 to complete the new Statehouse and maintain it; act appropriating $200,000 to the two Normal Schools and $200,000 to the State University; act putting poolrooms out of business; act giving state aid to all tuberculosis sanatoriums; act providing for a vote to amend the constitution so as to permit state aid to public road building; act authorizing warehousemen to commingle tobacco of like grades; act further regulating the employment of children in factories; and an act providing the tax penalty shall not go on until December 1st each year.

The bill to extend the county unit local option law to all counties in the state failed to pass, as did the bills to restrict the senatorial and representative districts, and the bill requiring all buyers of tobacco to pay a license fee.

The governor vetoed a number of bills, the most important one being the Amett bill exempting from taxation stock in foreign corporations owned by residents of Kentucky.

The total amount of all appropriation bills is about $1,325,000, and the session of sixty days cost about $29,000.

Governor Wilson gave out a statement reciting at considerable length his reasons for vetoing several appropriation bills passed by the legislature. The principal bill vetoed was the measure appropriating $100,000 for a state tuberculosis sanatorium. Three or four other measures added considerably to the sum appropriated by the legislature. In his statement the governor recites that when the present legislature and state officers were elected there was nearly a million and a half of dollars in the treasury. This surplus, he says, the legislature, against his wishes expressed in messages and vetoes, wiped out and then proceeded to pass the measures just vetoed after the auditor had presented to the two houses a statement showing that there was but $159 left in the treasury. The course of the majority of the legislature is sharply arraigned in the statement.

The following bills are all that passed and were signed by the Governor:

WILL CELEBRATE THE FOURTH.

Manager Neilsen Has Begun Preparations To Have Gala Day At Tar Springs.

GRAND BARBECUE ANNOUNCED.

Announcement is made to the public of the barbecue to be held at Tar Springs the Fourth of July. The event will be the greatest patriotic celebration that has ever taken place in this and surrounding counties.

The program of the day will be under the direction of Manager N. Neilsen and several assistants. He is making arrangements to give the guests at the resort and all visitors a day of utmost pleasure. High class amusements will be furnished in connection with the skating rink.

Other plans for the occasion will be published in the News later.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and often weakens the heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days' rest will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely feel the change from day to day. Sold by all dealers.

PASSED THE VENISON.

One Member of the Council Had a Tender Conscience.

This quaint account of an old bird thinking about venison in New England was found in the diary of a Connecticut minister, dated in the year 1714:

"When ye services at ye meeting house were ended, ye council and other dignitaries were deliberated at the house of Mr. Eves on ye bill near by where we had ye venison. I was the dinner, with bear's meat and venison, the last of which was a fine lunch, sold in the woods near by.

"When ye venison was served, ye council came that ye buck was shot on ye Lord's day by Popkin, an Indian, who came to Mr. Eves with a live in his hand, the Antelope of old. Ye council therefore refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward found that ye buck should have been shot on ye Lord's day and restore Mr. Eves a price of ye deer and, considering this just and righteous sentence on ye venison, ye council then decided that I been ravaged on ye meat, ye council at partook of it. I had Mr. Shepard, whose conscience was tender on ye point of ye venison."

One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a bug, he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by Stevens Drug Co.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Cloverport Citizen Finds The Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching. With distressing urinary disorders. Daily existence is but a struggle. No need to keep it up.

Joan's Kidney Pills will cure you.

G. R. Gregory, Bell Hotel, Owensboro, Ky., says: "My trouble was lame back and lumbago. At times I could hardly stand erect after sitting or stooping and the pains shooting through the small of my back on making any quick movement, were excruciating. I was also subject to frequent headaches, and was troubled more or less with dizzy spells. Learning of Joan's Kidney Pills I procured a box and they strengthened my back and felt like a different man. I do not think I have had a headache since and I give the credit to Joan's Kidney Pills."

An Old Subscriber.

A. H. Howell, of Irvington, has been a constant reader of the Breckenridge News since its publication. He was the 79th man to subscribe.

Years ago, in paying up his subscription, Mr. Howell secured one of the egg baskets given by the News. He has used it continually since, as a saving time or more dozen of eggs for the market every week winter and summer. He has said again when they have brought him only 3 cents per dozen, while he has carried them to his home buyer and realized 26 cents per dozen. In the winter when there has been a great scarcity of eggs. Doubtless it is the oldest egg basket in use in the county.

EIGHT PAGES.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8. 1908.

Pat Davis says, "Carrie, you've got a good choir but Hardinsburg beats you in numbers."

Don't stick up a notice on your neighbor's barn for a joke. These are not joking times along that line.

A Chicago live stock dealer says cattle will reach 8 cents, hogs 6 cents and lambs 3 cents before July 1, 1908.

Farmers from all sections of the county report tobacco plants in splendid condition and nearly ready for setting.

Let every tobacco grower in Breckinridge county do his level best to make quality instead of quantity in his tobacco crop. Quality always pays.

Whatever you do, don't put out more tobacco than you agreed to. Whether you belong to the society or not, stand with them and for what they want. In unity there is strength.

Taylor Beard paid a very handsome tribute to Breckinridge county citizenship in his talk before the Society of Equity. "Equal rights and equal privileges to all, United we Stand, Divided we Fall." Get this sentiment into your heart and work.

JUDGE HEAVERIN ACTIVE.

Judge M. L. Heaverin, of Hartford, chairman of the Fourth Congressional district was in Cloverport Friday and also visited other places in Breckinridge in the interest of the nomination of Taft for president. Judge Heaverin was cordially welcomed by the Republicans of this county and his advocating Taft has much influence over the political leaders.

A little Endeavor Currie said, "Pat Davis is come." We are glad Pat is here. He has come to us with the right spirit. He pleased everyone Monday night when he spoke of Cloverport and called it "a beautiful little city." It is a splendid town, the best on earth, but we hope Pat will help us make it more beautiful. We trust he will help us get the drunkard out of the ditch, the whiskey from the light drinker, and the gambler from his den. These things are here, right under one's nose, but we do not realize it until their terrible effects come into our own home, into our own shops and offices. Then we open our eyes! May Pat help us to do these things we ourselves have failed to do.

BEAU FIELDING.

He Was the Enigma of English Social Life in His Day.

Beau Fielding was a young man of fashion in the reign of William III. His name was unanimously furnished, his hunters, hawks and racers were of great value, and "he kept a table of princely hospitality." He had no ostensible source of income. All that was known of him was that he was the fifth son of Thomas Wilson, an impoverished gentleman of Leicestershire. Evelyn describes him as a very young man, "civil and good natured, but of no great force of character," and "very sober and of good family." All attempts to discover his secret were vain. "In his most careless hours of amusement he kept a strict guard over his tongue and let no scandal to conjecture what it pleased."

He redeemed his father's estate and portioned off his sisters and when re-confronted with an old extravagance repented that, however long his life should last, he would always have enough to live in the same way. Some said it was he who had robbed the Holland mall, for which another man had suffered; others that he depended upon the gambling table, though he never played for large sums. He was the enigma of social life till his career was cut short by a duel. His adversary was at that time a young man about town like himself, John Law, who afterward became the founder of the famous Mississippi scheme by which half of France was ruined. When the mysterious Beau died he left only a few pounds behind him and not a scrap of evidence to enlighten public curiosity.

HOT POTS OF HEBER.

The Curious Natural Formations Found in Utah.

Of ever increasing interest to natural curiosity seekers are the hot pots, about three miles from Heber City, Utah, on a branch of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, running up through picturesque Provo canyon. This region is a level plain, the surface of which arise in strange conical mounds of solid shaped cinders, the largest of them being all of fifty feet high, a hundred feet in diameter at the top and twice that at the base and containing in their dark depths immense volumes of water heated to a high temperature in the furnace of the earth. The waters contain the usual chemical properties of thermal springs and are used for bathing and drinking with excellent effects.

These pots have evidently been formed by the slow deposition through countless centuries of the silica and soda which enter into the composition of the waters that rise from the rim. The hot pots are found in the midst of cultivated fields and thriving orchards notwithstanding the peculiar rocklike soil composition.

One of the marked peculiarities of the region is the hollow, rumbling sound caused by carriages and horses as they move over the railroads for miles around. "Is there an enormous cavern just below the surface and will it ever cave in?" is the anxious inquiry of every visitor alarmed at the strange underground sounds. Exchange.

Sweet Cane From A Far Country.

It has been supposed that sugar cane was the "sweet cane from a far country" mentioned in Jeremiah vi, 29, and in Isaiah xlii, 24. According to Strabo, Xanthus, the admiral of Alexander the Great, describes a kind of "honey" from an Indian "reed" which was probably sugar cane. Europe seems to be indebted for the plant to the Saracens, who introduced it into Rhodes, Cyprus, Sicily, Crete and Spain in the fourth century. The remains of the twelfth century found it in Syria. The Spaniards and Portuguese carried it to Madeira and the Canaries in the fifteenth century, and on the discovery of America it was taken to the West Indies—New York American.

Real American Aristocracy.

It was through the Declaration of Independence that we Americans acknowledge the eternal inequality of man, for by it we abolished a cut and dried aristocracy. We had seen little men artificially held up in high places and great men artificially held down in low places, and our own justice loving hearts abhorred this violence to human nature. "Let the least man win." That is America's way. That is true democracy. And true democracy and true aristocracy are one and the same thing—Owen Winter in "The Virginian."

An Embarrassing Explanation.

"Why do you charge me 25 cents when your sign says, 'First class hair cut, 15 cents?'" demanded the indignant customer. "That is because I have shrunken his shoulders and lifted his eyebrows."

"Pardon, monsieur," he returned softly, "but it is not the hair that I cut, but the shoulders that I lift."

"My collection," said the numismaticist proudly, "is worth $10,000 and every coin genuine."

"Mine," said the minister sadly, "is worth about $7.00 a Sunday, and I have to take my chances on the coins being taken."—Cleveland Leader.

Would Take a Chance.

"Not a cent," replied the rich man coolly. "Money is not good for the poor."

"Well," responded the applicant, "just pretend that you have a grudge against me."—Exchange.

The Noted Hamilton Cultivator.

IMPROVED RIDING CULTIVATOR
No. 2, with Square Steel Beams and Four Shovels.

Our riding cultivators like all others of our make have the adjustable arch and foldable windward, but in addition to these they have another feature that has helped more than any other to increase their popularity, that is the fast treadle guide for controlling the beams. By a direct forward pressure of the foot on the treadle attached to the beams the operator can instantly make the beams run to the right or the left, or he can lift the beams out of the ground entirely. These features of course make the cultivator very easy to control and feel free with the horse and the operator can be sure that the whole implement, made it the first cultivator of the kind to be found anywhere. Spring and summer can now be used on this cultivator in place of the four shovel attachments, if desired.

ELECTRICITY.

Has Taken From Fire Its Supremacy as Man's Servant.

As we hear the whirr of the dynamo or listen at the telephone, as we turn the button of an incandescent lamp or travel in an automobile, we are reminded in a revolution more swift and profound than has ever before been enacted upon earth. Until the nineteenth century fire was justly accounted the most useful and versatile servant of man. Today, however, we are doing all that fire ever did and doing it better, while it accomplishes uncounted tasks far beyond the reach of flame. However ingeniously applied, we may thus observe under our eyes just such an impetus to human intelligence and power as when fire was first subdued to the purposes of use, with the least possible advantage that, whereas the subjugation of fire demanded ages of weary and uncertain experiment, the mastery of electricity is for the most part the assured work of the nineteenth century and in truth very largely of its last three decades. It begins at once the marriage of the mechanic and the chemist, the engineer and the artist, with issue attended by all its own fertility, while its far-reaching progress after the invention of dynamo, indeed, unexcited before its advent. Every other brilliant gift of man rises to a new height at the bidding of the electrician.—F. Nelson Tracy in Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

CELESTIAL WONDERS.

Color of the Sky and the Moon and the Hues of the Stars.

It is the atmosphere that makes the sky look blue and the moon yellow. If we could ascend to an elevation of fifty miles above the earth's surface, we should see that the moon is a brilliant white, while the sky will be a deep blue, with the stars shining as brightly in the daytime as at night.

Furthermore, as a most picturesque feature of the sky, we should notice that some of the stars are red, others blue, yet others violet and still others green in color. Of course all of the stars, if we far the surface of our own system, are burning suns, and the hues they wear depend upon their temperature.

The hottest stars are blue. Those next in the celestial Lyra, is a blue sun hundreds of times as large as our own solar orb. We are journeying in its direction at the rate of millions of miles a day, and at some future time it may gild us all up.

For, after all, humankind though the confusion be, our sun is only a very small star—of the sixth magnitude of thereabouts—and of an importance in the universe so slight as to be scarcely within the pale of respectability.—Reader Magazine.

THE FACE IN ILLNESS.

To the Trained Eye It Quickly Shows a Patient's Condition.

The face is a good index to the state of one's physical being, and from its symptoms of disease can be detected almost before the patient is aware that anything serious is the matter with him. For instance, incomplete closure of the eyelids, rolling of the eyeballs, the eyes visible during sleep, is a symptom in all acute and chronic diseases of a severe type. It is also to be observed when rest is unobtainable from pain wherever sent.

Twitching of the eyelids, associated with the oscillation of the eyeballs, or spitting, heralds the visit of convulsions.

Whitening of the orbites of the nose, with movements of the nostrils to and fro, points to either a cold or a fever from disease of the lungs or their peripheral involvement.

Constriction of the brows indicates pain in the head, sharpness of the nostrils pain in the chest and a drawn upper lip pain in the abdomen.

To make a general rule, it may be stated that the upper part of the face is nearest to expression in affections of the brain and the middle third in the diseases of the organs contained in the abdominal cavity.

Cotton Spinning Feats.

"See, Island cotton is the best kind," said a southerner. "It is finer and softer than any other cotton in the world. A pound of it can be spun into 4,770 miles of thread. For an experiment once in the English town of Manchester a skilled spinner spun a pound of sea island cotton into a single thread 1,000 miles long. Then for another experiment he took another pound of cotton and spun it into as many hanks as he could get. He got 10,000 hanks in all, and the yarn got four measured 800 yards. Thus, out of a pound of cotton 4,770 miles of yarn was produced. This yarn, though, was too fine to be of any practical utility. Thus the two experiments made a superb experiment for the cotton of the south."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Constantinople Shoemakers.

In Constantinople the shoemakers are all poets. While a customer is having a heel repaired or a shoe related the attendant recites extemporized or memorized verses to him. As the language is Arabic or Turkish, the listener rarely knows whether he is hearing a good or bad verse. On the Muski, the Broadway of old Cairo, one can buy the red leather, sharp-toed slippers, which are worn in a land where there is rarely any rain, for about 90 cents. They are not worth more, being very flimsy articles of construction. They are not representative of the expert English or American handmade shoe, which is a thing of beauty, of comfort and of enduring utility.—Argonaut.

His figures for turnpiking show that it can be much more inexpensively done than is commonly believed.

Andrew Reed received the contract for building the new school house on the pike near Frank Jolly's. He completes the building for $25.

FATE OF CRIMINALS.

Judge Whitman Favors Life Imprisonment For Habituals.

TOO MUCH SYMPATHY WASTED

Reform of Felons Over Thirty Is Impossible, Claims New York Jurist. Urges Removing Crime's Causes and Less Reformations.

Judges, lawyers and students of criminology have been commenting upon the stand taken by Charles S. Whitman, recently judge of the court of general sessions in New York, who not only says that other death or life imprisonment should be the sentence for habitual criminals, but also declares that too much sympathy is wasted upon criminals of low degree. Judge Whitman, who is generally regarded as the deepest student of criminology in New York city, in discussing his views with a reporter of the New York Herald asserted that the cases of criminals reforming after having reached the age of thirty are practically an unheard-of thing.

State prison should not be confounded with reformatories, he says, and while the latter do good and have some effect in reforming young prisoners, criminals who are sent to penitentiaries come out far more vicious and dangerous than when they were sentenced. They have gained shrewdness, and a man who has a prison record is of far more danger to the community than one who has never been behind prison bars.

The way to eliminate crime, Judge Whitman says, is to eliminate crime itself. But there are many other things, for every year it is getting harder and harder to punish prisoners guilty of the crimes for which they were arrested.

In speaking of the causes of crime and the making of criminals the jurist declares that the low pay of women in the shops in New York city has had much to do with their downfall. Better wages would take away many of their temptations. In summing up the situation he said:

"It is getting harder and harder every day to bring the criminal to proper punishment. I do not believe this to be the fault of the judicial system, but seems about as satisfactory an arrangement as we can get. It is the fault of the people themselves. We are too lenient to good natured, too prone to look lightly, not to say with some amusement, on the offender, and of course this is the charitable Jew, and the man who holds it legs the flatterer in action to his soul that he is a 'good fellow,' a sympathizer with the frailties of fellow humans. The man who so argues makes the mistake of his life."

"Let the turgid or the misleader or offender of any sort who has committed a crime of any moment be sent to the Tumbles and let's only a few days before he comes to feel he is a hero and perfectly entitled to the sympathy and the honors and the tokens that begin to dower in from the sentimental as soon as the facts become public and he has gained his little newspaper notoriety. Abandon sentimentality in connection with the criminal. Let his picture in the papers. He is a celebrity. His cause is furthered by the popular ideas that find expression in the newspapers, the magazines and the theaters. There is a romanticism clinging about him which is absent from the life of the well ordered."

"The tardiness of trying prisoners is responsible for a great many of the acquittals, for the misplaced sympathy of the public for has had a chance to grow to proportions sufficient to offset the terrifying aspects of crime. This must always be so under the present system of delay in trials, for which the district attorney of this county is in no way responsible."

"Our highly technical practice is responsible for much delay. I believe, if we had a revision of the code, longer prison terms, quicker trials and only one appeal would be protecting society of delay in trials, for which the district attorney of this county is in no way responsible."

"But the primary obstacle to the betterment of conditions is the foolish attitude of the people who glorify in releasing criminals and ignore those who have not risen, but still are in need of the sympathy that is being wasted. Especially is this true of the woman offender. Many love to hear eloquent discourses on the sad condition of the girls of the streets. I know the view I hold is not the popular one, but nevertheless I am firmly of the belief that the women of the streets do not reform any more than does her brother of the bawling kit and dark lantern. And she is a most dangerous factor in the spread of crime. Most of her class are thieves, and most of them support themselves of the opposite sex, and therefore their influence for evil is most extensive."

"Instead of wasting so much sympathy on the girls who have fallen, why not expend some practical consideration on the young woman who may be in danger of falling? This, it seems to me, would be the better plan. The ounce of prevention outweighs the pound of cure many fold."

"It is well nigh impossible, in my opinion, for the shopgirl getting $4 or $5 a week to live in New York in a self-respecting manner. If there were less sympathy and commiseration for the criminal and the reformatories, the reformatories would be able to do more for the needy. The present system is a failure."

One Seam For Fifteen Years.

It has been said that the most monotonous form of labor is ginning hulk. But there are many others which come very near it. In the best and some trade, for instance, the work is divided among as many workers as possible. One will time make a single cut in the leather and another give one turn of the machine handle. In some cases a pair of shoes have passed through fifteen pairs of hands before reaching the market. As a natural result, there are workers who work after week go on performing the same work hundreds of times a day. Indeed in one factory there is a woman who for fifteen years has sewed only one seam. Her machine works so rapidly that she spends as much time inserting and withdrawing her work as in the actual sewing.—Westminster Gazette.

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. These tablets represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna, and each tablet is equivalent to one average dose.

The Family Relies on Pe-ru-na.

A. Howitt Nickerson, Captain U. S. Army, Adjutant General on General McCook's staff, writes from the Census Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"It affords me great pleasure to commend Peruna as a most excellent tonic with many medicinal qualities that assist nature in overcoming the various ills with which the human family is often afflicted, and is always in danger. 'As a general thing, I have been opposed to what are known as patent medicines, but Peruna has long since overcome this feeling. It is now, as has been for a long time, a well-established family medicine with us, upon which we rely to give tired nature substantial restoration.'"
